My experience with Honey Ward as a life coach is extremely positive. In each of our phone conversations, Honey is totally present and completely "there" for me. She always has very pragmatic suggestions for how to achieve the goals I set. Honey helps me sort out my thoughts, prioritize my goals, and plan how to set it all into action. And all with a great sense of humor! John Topping

Dear Honey,

Thank you for being my coach for the last year. On the days that we talked, I always felt more generous, centered, and focused. You also helped me with some troublesome family issues so that I could be a "nicer person" with my family. I appreciate how you noticed what I had actually accomplished, as I have a great tendency to discount my own progress.

Your ability to keep the focus during our calls kept me moving forward, a step at a time, without letting me commit to too much at a time. I also appreciated you "making" me commit to fun and renewing-type activities, like spending time at the beach, even when I would think I didn't have time.

Thank you for everything, as I move closer to my dreams. Sincerely,
Ellen Lohneiss

After one year of improvements and upgrades, Honey helped me set and manifest an ambitious goal to complete and rent a vacation rental in two weeks. I was immediately successful in renting it out for a month to one client. A great way to start my coaching relationship with Honey Ward.

Honey is a great ally and sounding board. I continually look to her great judgment and support to help keep me on track in my business and personal life. Most importantly, when I'm faced with difficult decisions, she provides an independent, unbiased opinion about this confusing game of life. Bonnie Koch
